YOUR SERVICE STATION GIVES IT

(Note: The following article, entitled— "If It's Service You Want by Cal Tinney, condensed from the Arkansas Gazette, is reprinted in the September issue of The Democratic Digest).

The filling station is this nation's chief model for courtesy, brotherly love and charity.

Do grocers rush out and hand you free cheese and crackers?

Do jewelers dash to their doors and check the mainspring of your watch free of charge?

I've been in a hundred doctor's offices and not a single doctor rushed out to his reception room, called me "sir" and checked my tonsils, adenoids or sinuses on the house.

And how about lawyers? Is there a law office in the country where you can get the service you receive in a filling station? No. I don't know a single lawyer who will cheerfully check your replevins, fill your codicils or wipe your waiver—without charge.

In fact, I've often wondered how filling station attendants bear up under their cross. They rush out and call you "sir," check your tires, clean your windshied, fill your radiator and check your batteries, and then politely ask "Will that be all, sir?" and you say, "No, where is the water cooler?"

After these gentlemen have pointed out their water cooler to you you drink your fill of free ice water. Then you take up five minutes of their time by asking them the best way to get to Gopher Holler, and just before you drive off you ask'em for a free road map.

I defy anyone to name another line of business that offers so much service without making you think it's Palm Sunday every day in the week. (There are several varieties of palms in this country. The tree palm, the restaurant palm and the taxi palm are the most common.)

Go to a hotel and see whether you are treated as royally as you are at a filling station. The bellhops grab your luggage but they don't offer to shine your shoes and wipe your spactacles.

Go to a restaurant. Does the waitress sew a button on your coat sleeve, straighten your tie, or close the gap in yoru wife's zipper? Lands no! She's too busy avoiding your eye when you want to give your order.

—Democratic Digest.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

In order to speed up the processing of GI home loan applications, Veterans Administration urged supervised lenders to process GI loans without asking VA for approval in advance.

Banks, savings and loan associations and insurance companies, supervised by Federal or State banking authorities, originate more than 50 per cent of all GI home loans.

They have the privilege of making, processing and closing loans automatically without advance approval by VA and then coming to VA for guaranty.

Non-supervised lenders, mostly mortgage brokers, must get the prior approval of VA before making GI loans.

As a result of the easing of the GI mortgage money market since the beginning of the year, the number of home loan applications has increased sharply. During June, VA received 46,239 loan applications, which was a 75 per cent increase over the 26,454 received in June of 1952.

VA estimates that approximately 24,000 of the 46,239 loan applications received during June came from supervised lenders. Of the 24,000 only about 9,000 were processed by supervised lenders automatically.

Thus, if all of the June loans originated by supervised lenders were processed by them on the automatic basis, over-loaded VA offices would have been saved the necessity of reviewing nearly 15,000 applications for prior approval, VA said.

In addition, the veteran-applicant would have been in his home a week or two sooner on the average VA added.

In view of the increasing work loads in VA offices and the desirability of closing GI loans with the least possible delay, VA asked supervised lenders who have been sending in loan applications for VA's prior approval to reconsider their practices.

VA emphasized that as long as the price of the property does not exceed the reasonable value set by VA appraisal and the veteran is eligible, there is no need for contacting VA in routine cases until after the loan has been closed and fully disbursed.

Only one person out of 100 in Finland is illiterate.

SUSSEX GAME REFUGE TO BE SOLD

By authority given the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries by the 1954 General Assembly, the Commission is making preparations to sell the Sussex County Game Refuge comprising approximately 2000 acres about 10 miles west of Waverly in that county.

In modern game management practices, the Commission discovered that the area was too small and too narrow to develop effectively as a refuge. In the meantime it developed a public fishing pond which has approximately 50 surface acres of water. The Commission will retain ownership of the pond and sell the remainder of the old refuge, according to Executive Director I. T. Quinn.

The date of the sale will be announced later.

VIRGINIA'S BIRTHDAY COMES AUGUST 18TH.

Manteo, N. C.- Virginia's birthday will be celebrated here on Wednesday, August 18. This is not the State of Virginia, but the anniversary of Virginia Dare, the first child of English-parentage born in the New World that was to become America. Virginia Dare was born on August 18, 1587. Her parents, Anahias and Eleanor Dare were members of the group of men and women who attepmted settlemen here on Roanoke Island, an attempt which resulted in failure and "the Lost Colony," a history mystery, which in more than three and a half centuries has never been solved. Today at Waterside Theatre on Roanoke Island Paul Green's symphonic drama. The Lost Colony, America's longest lived outdoor production, tells the story of Virginia's birth of the attempt and failure to establish the Sir Walter Raleigh-visioned colony in the New World. And each year, on August 18th, here on Roanoke Island, homage is paid to Virginia Dare in a special performance of The Lost Colony, usually attended by many prominent personages.

This year, a feature of the birthday party for Virginia Dare, will be music by Elizabeth City's famous high school band.

Subscription rate: $2.00 a year payable in advance.

NEW METHOD OF CURING FOOT ROT SUGGESTED

Virginia sheep growers might be interested in some news from Australia concerning control of foot rot.

Animal husbandman at VPI report that researchers in Australia have been getting a high percentage of cures by applying a 10% solution of chloromycetin in methylated spirits to a well-trimmed foot. The solution was applied with a paint brush and the animals not allowed to get their feet wet for several hours.

To make it easier, the Australians use a mechanical cradle which holds the sheep on its back, with feet up, for trimming. At least one such device is on the market commercially.
